

Scrapped.

You are in safe hands.

With a name and reputation like ours, it's not surprising we know all about wrapping films. That's what we do, pure and simple.

In fact, we have over 30 years' experience of developing innovative film products, technologies and applications.

That also means over 30 years of expertise; working with major wrapping machine and blue chip food and drink manufacturers to oversee the films' successful implementation and to develop the next generation of products.

That's right down the line and right across the process. From cradle to grave; from film and system design, right through to recycling expertise.

Which means our promise is both simple and compelling:

Whatever you produce, we can wrap your products securely, consistently and cost-effectively as well as adding genuine value to your packaging processes.

Contact us today about your wrapping requirements through the details below.

We'll do our utmost to make sure your products and your reputation arrive safe and sound.

Your product has had a small fortune invested in its R&D.

And years of consumer testing.

It has required many long months and many epic battles to get it past your customers' buying team.

It has taken hundreds of thousands to launch and swallowed yet more much needed budget in awareness & communications.

When you think about it, there's one heck of a lot invested in your brand.

Yet it has now earned its place in the consumers' hearts and on their shopping lists.

So why risk cutting corners on its packaging?

Can you really afford for it to leave looking a million dollars and for it to arrive looking some way south of perfect?

In truth, it's much more than just the cost of scrapped or wasted product and credits reimbursed.

It's your reputation and your brand that takes the battering – with both retailers and consumers – if your products appear on the shelves as dirty or damaged goods.

Which is exactly why you should talk to us about a full packaging audit.

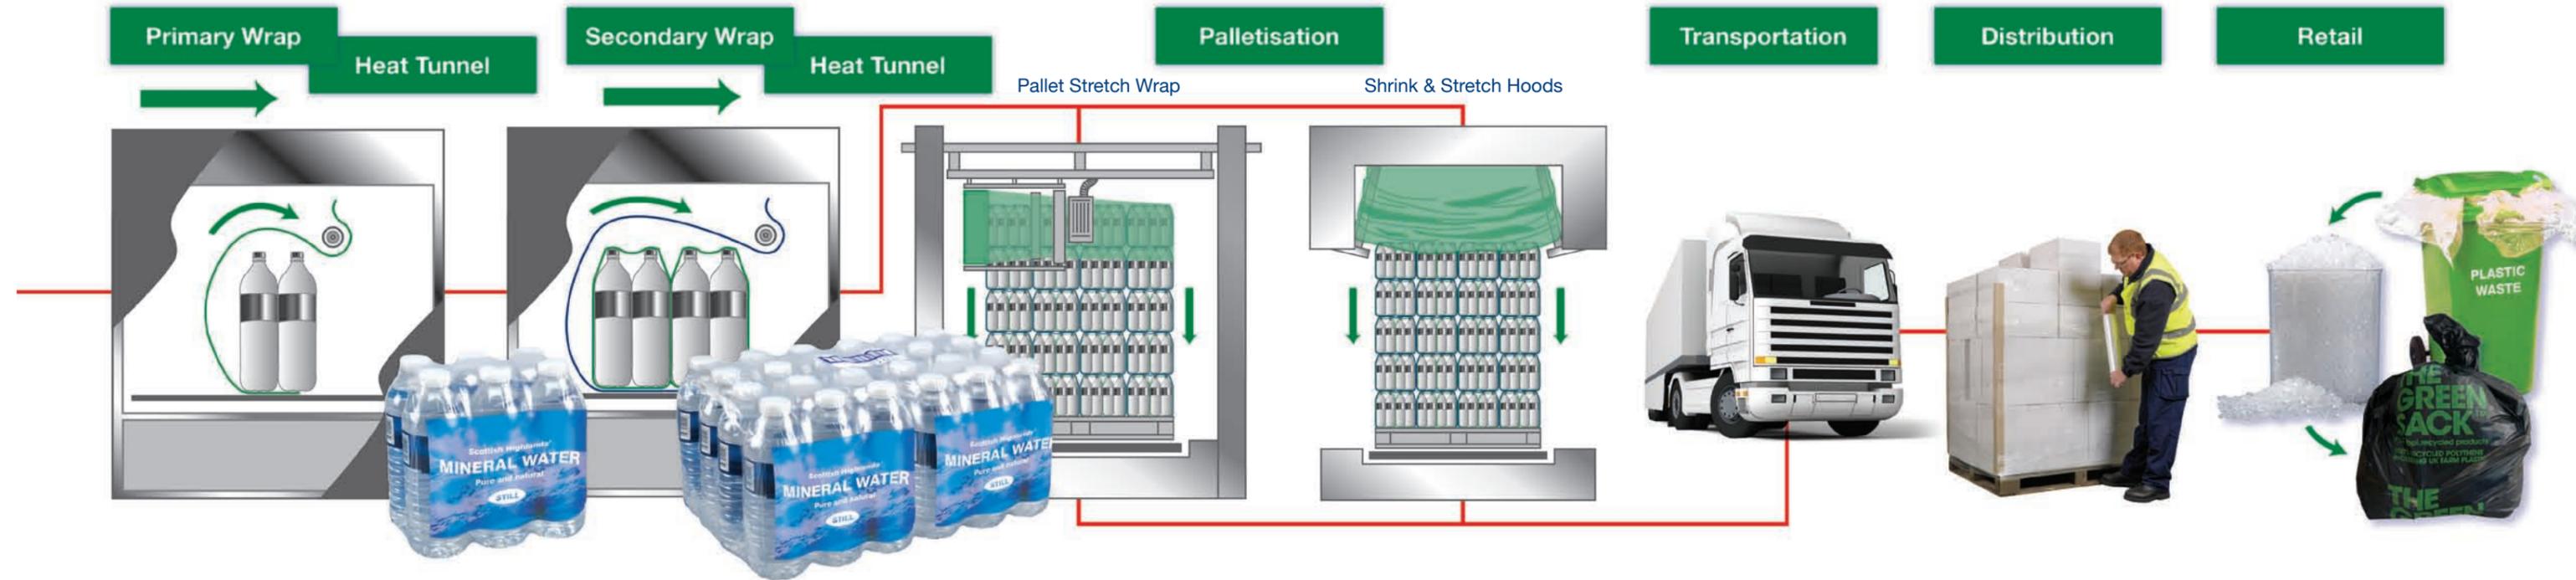

Unlike others, we can provide a genuine 'single source' solution that covers all aspects of your product's journey to market with film products guaranteed to work seamlessly together. And, at the end of its journey, we are also industry leaders in responsible recycling too.

Who knows, all that expertise might even save you some money.

But it will certainly help secure your product's safe passage to its coveted place in Mrs Smith's trolley.

Protecting your investment, your product and your brand at every single stage.

Primary wrap: have we fully audited the lines and rationalised and optimised the SKU?
Heat tunnel: if films are optimised, how much energy are our products and audit saving you?

Secondary wrap: is the film the correct thickness to avoid 'stiction' to any primary wrap?
Pre-palletisation: when wrapped, does your pack have complete integrity?

Pallet Stretch Wrap: are you applying the correct weight and tension to maximise pallet stability? Have we audited that?

Pallet Stretch/Shrink Hoods: is the quality of the film supporting your load correctly?

Are all films compatible to maximise stability during transit? Are all palletised loads stable and arriving intact?

Hand Films: are you using the latest technology products with a thinner gauge and lighter weight to minimise waste?

Reclaiming film: did you know that BPI is the largest recycler of PE film in Europe?
